

SARA HAGEMANN

Sara Hageman is a policy analyst for the European Policy Centre in Brussels, Seminar teacher in EU governance and politics, European Journalism Centre and Independent Consultant on EU Affairs. She previously worked at the Centre for European Policy Studies. She has a PhD in Political Science (London School of Economics), Master in Research Methods (London School of Economics), and Master in Comparative Politics (London School of Economics) and is the co-author of two influential books on the quantitative study of EU decision making - Old Rules, New Game: 'Decision-making in the Council of Ministers after the 2004 Enlargement', CEPS (Brussels, 2006) and 'Unveiling the Council: Games Governments Play in Brussels' (Palgrave, 2008).

Sara Hageman je politolog a analytik Střediska evropské politiky v Bruselu, vede seminář o politickém systému EU, působí v European Journalism Centre a je nezávislou poradkyní v záležitostech Evropské unie. Dříve pracovala v Centru pro evropská politická studia. Má doktorát z politických věd (London School of Economics), magisterský titul z metod výzkumu (London School of Economics), a magisterský titul z komparativní politologie (London School of Economics). Je spolu-autorkou významné knihy o kvantitativní studii rozhodovacích procesů EU - stará pravidla, nová hra: rozhodovací proces v Radě ministrů po rozšíření v roce 2004, CEPS (Brusel, 2006) a autorkou knihy Unveiling the Council: Games Governments Play in Brussels' (Palgrave, 2008). (odhalení Rady: Hry vlád v Bruselu ) (Palgrave, 2008).